

Privacy Policy

Effective Date: 30 August 2026

Last Updated: 30 August 2026

SwasthyaConnect Technologies Private Limited ("SwasthyaConnect", "Company", "we", "us" or "our") is a healthcare technology company headquartered in Pune, Maharashtra. We operate digital health platforms, including the SwasthyaConnect mobile application, website, patient engagement tools, teleconsultation interfaces, diagnostic coordination services and related products (collectively, the "Services").

This Privacy Policy explains how we collect, use, disclose, retain and protect personal data relating to users of our Services in India. It also describes the choices and rights available to individuals under applicable Indian law, including the Digital Personal Data Protection Act, 2023 (the "DPDP Act"), as and when applicable to our processing activities.

By accessing or using the Services, you acknowledge that you have read this Privacy Policy. Where consent is required by applicable law, we will seek consent through an appropriate notice, checkbox, digital interface or other permitted method before processing the relevant personal data.

1. About SwasthyaConnect

SwasthyaConnect Technologies Private Limited is a company incorporated under the Companies Act, 2013. Our registered office is at:

Office 402, Meridian Business Centre, Survey No. 18, Baner Road, Baner, Pune, Maharashtra 411045, India.

For privacy-related questions, individuals may contact us at privacy@swasthyaconnect.in or by post at the address above. Our general privacy contact will coordinate privacy enquiries internally and route them to the relevant function.

2. Personal Data We Collect

Depending on how you use the Services, we may collect the following categories of personal data:

2.1 Identity and contact information

This may include your full name, age or date of birth, gender, photograph, postal address, email address, telephone number, emergency contact details and account credentials. Where necessary to establish an account or provide a requested service, we may also collect government-issued identification details or other information used for identity verification.

2.2 Health and healthcare information

To provide healthcare-related Services, we may collect information such as symptoms, medical history, diagnoses, prescriptions, laboratory reports, imaging records, allergies, immunisation details, treatment information, insurance information, appointment history, information provided during teleconsultations, and information relating to a dependent or person for whom you are authorised to act.

Health information may be provided directly by you, generated through your use of the Services, received from healthcare professionals or institutions at your direction, or obtained from service providers involved in delivering a requested healthcare service.

2.3 Transaction and service information

We may collect information about appointments, consultations, orders, subscriptions, payments, refunds, claims, communications with our support team, and feedback or reviews that you submit.

Payment card, banking and other payment information may be collected and processed by authorised payment service providers. We generally do not retain complete payment card numbers or payment authentication credentials on our systems.

2.4 Device, technical and usage information

When you access the Services, we may collect device identifiers, IP address, browser type, operating system, mobile network information, application version, approximate location derived from technical information, log data, crash reports, cookie identifiers and information about how you interact with the Services.

Where enabled by your device and permitted by law, we may collect precise location information to support location-based healthcare searches, clinic directions, home sample collection and similar features. You may manage location permissions through your device settings, although some features may not operate fully if you disable them.

2.5 Information from other sources

We may receive personal data from hospitals, clinics, laboratories, pharmacies, insurers, employers sponsoring a health programme, identity-verification providers, payment providers, publicly available sources, and other persons where you have authorised the disclosure or where the disclosure is otherwise permitted by applicable law.

3. Purposes of Processing

We process personal data for the following primary purposes:

1. to create and administer your account and authenticate your identity;
2. to schedule and facilitate consultations, diagnostic services, medicine delivery, health assessments and other services requested by you;
3. to maintain, organise and provide access to health records and service history;
4. to communicate appointment reminders, service updates, safety notices, account notifications and support responses;
5. to process payments, subscriptions, refunds, insurance claims and related accounting activities;
6. to provide customer care, resolve service issues and respond to enquiries;
7. to personalise the presentation of features and content within the Services;
8. to improve, test, secure and develop our products, systems and service operations;
9. to detect fraud, misuse, unauthorised access, security incidents and other unlawful or harmful activity;
10. to comply with legal, regulatory, court or governmental requirements;
11. to conduct internal audits, quality assurance, service planning and business administration; and
12. to send health programme information, educational material, service offers and other marketing communications where permitted and, where required, after obtaining your consent.

We seek to use personal data for purposes reasonably connected with the purpose for which it was collected. However, information shared with selected analytics, advertising and business partners may also be used to measure campaigns, develop audience insights, improve commercial outreach and support other related business and promotional purposes that may extend beyond the original service purpose described at collection.

4. Consent and Withdrawal of Consent

Where processing is based on consent, we will seek consent through a clear affirmative action and will maintain records of the consent received. You may decline to provide consent for optional processing, and you may withdraw consent by using the controls made available in your account, changing relevant device permissions, selecting the unsubscribe option in a communication, or writing to privacy@swasthyaconnect.in.

Withdrawal of consent will not affect the lawfulness of processing carried out before withdrawal. It may also affect our ability to provide particular Services that require the relevant information. We will take commercially reasonable steps to action a withdrawal request; depending on the nature, scope, verification requirements and operational dependencies of the request, implementation may take up to two years from the date on which the request is received.

5. Children and Persons Lacking Capacity

The Services are intended for use by adults and by parents, guardians or other authorised representatives acting for minors. If you provide information relating to a child, you represent that you are authorised to do so.

We may process children's personal data to facilitate healthcare appointments, treatment coordination, health programmes, educational communications and other requested services. In certain circumstances, we may also use children's account or service information to deliver personalised advertising or promotional content relating to health products, wellness services or family offerings. The availability and operation of these activities may change as technical, regulatory and business controls are developed.

Parents or lawful guardians who believe that a child's personal data has been provided to us may contact privacy@swasthyaconnect.in. We may request information necessary to verify the identity and authority of the person making the request.

6. Disclosure and Sharing of Personal Data

We may disclose personal data to the following categories of recipients, subject to applicable law and appropriate safeguards:

- healthcare professionals, hospitals, clinics, laboratories, pharmacies and other providers involved in delivering services requested by you;
- payment processors, insurers, identity-verification providers, customer-support providers, cloud-hosting providers, communications providers and other service providers acting on our behalf;
- analytics, measurement, advertising and marketing partners;
- group companies, professional advisers, auditors and insurers;
- courts, regulators, law-enforcement authorities, government departments or other persons where disclosure is required or permitted by law; and
- a purchaser, successor or transaction counterparty in connection with a merger, financing, reorganisation, sale of assets or similar corporate transaction.

Our service providers may process personal data only under written contractual arrangements requiring confidentiality, reasonable security safeguards, use for specified services, assistance with data-related requests and appropriate deletion or return of information when the engagement ends, subject to legal and operational requirements.

We do not normally sell personal data to unrelated third parties for their independent use. We may nevertheless disclose selected information to analytics, advertising and promotional partners for measurement, audience creation, campaign delivery, service improvement and related commercial purposes. These activities may involve combining information obtained through the Services with information from other sources, where permitted by applicable law.

7. Cross-Border Processing

SwasthyaConnect and its service providers may store, access or process personal data in India and in other jurisdictions where we or our service providers maintain facilities or engage personnel. Cross-border transfers may be made to any country, subject to commercial availability, service requirements and applicable contractual arrangements.

By using the Services, you acknowledge that the laws of the jurisdiction receiving personal data may differ from Indian law. We will take steps we consider appropriate to protect personal data during international processing and will comply with restrictions that apply to us under Indian law from time to time.

8. Security Safeguards

We maintain reasonable technical and organisational measures designed to protect personal data against unauthorised access, alteration, disclosure, loss, misuse or destruction. Depending on the nature of the information and the associated risks, these measures may include access controls, role-based permissions, encryption in transit, encryption or equivalent protection for selected data at rest, logging, monitoring, vulnerability management, backups, secure development practices, employee confidentiality obligations and periodic reviews of our security programme.

No method of transmission, storage or electronic processing is completely secure. Accordingly, we cannot guarantee absolute security. You are responsible for keeping account credentials confidential and for notifying us promptly if you suspect unauthorised use of your account.

If we identify a significant data security incident, we will assess it and take steps that we consider appropriate in the circumstances, including containment, investigation, remediation and communication with affected persons, authorities or other stakeholders where required. This Policy does not specify a fixed notification period or a particular communication channel for every incident.

9. Retention of Personal Data

We retain personal data for as long as we consider necessary for the purposes described in this Policy, including to provide Services, maintain healthcare and business records, comply with legal and regulatory obligations, resolve disputes, enforce agreements, prevent fraud and protect our rights.

Personal data may be retained indefinitely, including after the original purpose for which it was collected has been fulfilled, where the Company considers that continued retention may support historical records, service continuity, analytics, legal protection, audit requirements, product development or other legitimate business needs.

We may retain anonymised, aggregated or supposedly anonymised information indefinitely. For purposes of this Policy, information may be treated as anonymised when direct identifiers have been removed or transformed and the Company determines, using its internal assessment, that the information is not reasonably likely to identify an individual. We do not publish a fixed technical threshold or universal test for making this determination.

10. Your Rights and Requests

Subject to applicable law, you may request information about the personal data processed by us and the manner in which it is processed. You may also request correction or updating of inaccurate, incomplete or out-of-date personal data, and you may nominate another person to exercise rights on your behalf where permitted.

You may submit a request through the privacy settings in the Services or by emailing privacy@swasthyaconnect.in. We may require reasonable information to authenticate your identity, protect the rights of other persons and clarify the scope of your request.

We provide mechanisms for access and correction. Where applicable, we will consider requests relating to deletion or erasure in accordance with our legal and operational requirements; however, the Services do not provide a general, directly available erasure mechanism for all categories of personal data. We may retain information where necessary for healthcare continuity, safety, fraud prevention, legal compliance, dispute resolution, recordkeeping or other permitted purposes.

We may charge or refuse to act on a request where permitted by law, including where a request is manifestly unfounded, repetitive, technically impracticable, disproportionate or likely to compromise the privacy or security of another person.

11. Grievances and Complaints

We maintain a grievance mechanism for concerns about the collection, use, disclosure, security or handling of personal data. Individuals may raise a concern by contacting privacy@swasthyaconnect.in, using the help or support area in the Services, or writing to the registered office address.

When a grievance is received, we may verify the requester's identity, review relevant account and processing records, consult internal teams or service providers, and communicate an outcome or further information where appropriate. The time required to address a grievance depends on its nature, complexity, verification requirements and the involvement of third parties. If you are dissatisfied with the response, you may request an internal review or pursue any remedy available under applicable law.

The Company may designate or change the person responsible for handling privacy grievances from time to time. The current privacy contact can be reached at privacy@swasthyaconnect.in; this Policy does not separately identify a named Grievance Officer.

12. Cookies and Similar Technologies

We use cookies, software development kits, pixels, local storage and similar technologies to keep the Services functioning, remember preferences, understand usage, measure performance, detect fraud and support communications and advertising. Some technologies are essential, while others are optional or used for analytics and promotional purposes.

You may control cookies through your browser or device settings and, where available, through the consent or privacy controls presented in the Services. Disabling certain technologies may affect functionality or the availability of personalised features.

13. Marketing Communications

Subject to applicable law and your preferences, we may send service messages, health education material, newsletters, surveys and promotional communications by email, telephone, SMS, messaging applications, push notification or other channels.

You may opt out of non-essential promotional communications by following the instructions in the communication or by contacting privacy@swasthyaconnect.in. You may continue to receive transactional, safety, account or service-related communications after opting out of marketing.

14. Third-Party Services and Links

The Services may contain links to websites, applications, payment interfaces, healthcare providers or other services operated by third parties. Their privacy practices are governed by their own policies. We encourage you to review those policies before providing personal data. We are not responsible for the content, security or privacy practices of third-party services that we do not operate.

15. Changes to this Policy

We may amend this Privacy Policy to reflect changes to our Services, processing activities, technology, legal requirements or business practices. The revised version will be posted through the Services with a new “Last Updated” date. Where required, we will provide additional notice or obtain consent before implementing a material change.

Your continued use of the Services after the updated Policy is made available will constitute acknowledgement of the revised Policy to the extent permitted by applicable law.
